Title IV of the Ethics in Government Act of 1978

5 CFR part 2638

Monitor compliance with the public and confidential financial disclosure requirements; and

Evaluate the effectiveness of programs designed to prevent conflicts of interest
Findings of lack of compliance with ethics requirements are reportable if they are material.

In general, a finding is material if there is:

- routine lack of compliance with a statutory/regulatory provision or related provisions; or
- a single instance of lack of compliance with a statutory/regulatory provision of substantial magnitude.
Model Practices

- Helps the agency foster a strong ethical culture
  - Example - An agency head includes a welcome letter underscoring the importance of ethical culture in initial ethics orientation materials for new employees.

- Creates efficiencies in the administration of the ethics program
  - Example – The agency employs a database that sends automatic notifications reminding ethics officials that a report must be reviewed and certified to meet the 60-day deadline.

- Facilitates enduring ethics program effectiveness
  - Example – The agency has a comprehensive succession plan for the ethics program that prepares the agency for turnover in staff.

- Is an innovative solution to a challenge that may be useful to the executive branch ethics community

- Example – The agency is having trouble identifying new employees in order to provide them with initial ethics orientation. The human resources office is unable or unwilling to help the ethics office. The ethics office knows that every new employee fills out a form to gain access to a computer. The ethics office then convinces IT to include a signature line for the ethics office on the computer access form. Now, the ethics office can identify every incoming employee because new employees require the signature of an ethics official before they can access their computer.

- Use OGE checklist
Tips for Success in a Program Review

- Be familiar with OGE resources and Desk Officer program
- Be familiar with your agency’s history especially compliance and enforcement
- Make their Program Review Report easy to write — especially agency overview
- Make FDM records audit-friendly
- Identify deficiencies and corrective actions
- Identify Model Practices
- Be timely and thorough on responses
Recent DoD Deficiencies on Program Reviews

- December 2012: Headquarters. U.S. Army
  - Difficulty ID new employees, hence routinely > 30 days to file
  - Review and certification of annual and termination (278) reports often late
    - No control over supervisors
    - Document Initial Technical Review!
  - Retain (paper) records for (NMT) 6 years
  - FDM must compete with other OGC initiatives for funding
  - All 5 recommendations and 4 suggestions closed out by follow-on report
Recent DoD Deficiencies on Program Reviews cont.

November 2011: Headquarters, U.S. Navy
- Good system of conflict of interest review (using checklist)
- 39% of OGE 278s certified late but good documentation of Initial Technical Review
- New entrant OGE 450 filers hard to identify and often filed late
- No training deficiencies
- Overall, very good report (2 minor suggestions)

  - Routine delays in certification of OGE 278s
  - Difficulty in timely ID of new OGE 278 entrant and termination filers
  - Field Ethics Counselors lack experience in financial disclosure and FDM system
  - System of dissemination of boilerplate opinions (e.g., WAG) deemed Advice and Counsel Model Practice
October 2011: Defense Logistics Agency

- OGE “impressed” with 98% of annual OGE 278s timely filed
- One suggestion: new entrant OGE 450s filed late
- 12 Model Practices!
  - Agency self-awareness audit for employee knowledge of ethics program
  - Conflict of Interest review checklist for filers and reviewers
  - Education and training: 1) DAEO involved in senior leader training; 2) useful website; 3) creative training formats for ECs
  - Advice and Counsel: 1) All EC database; 2) customized PGE letters; 3) Comms between HQ and field; 4) Annual EC seminar; and 5) phone kiosks with EC for isolate employees

- Fantastic Program Review report
